ABOUT TRADMED ASIA 2027

TradMed Asia 2027 – World Congress on Traditional Medicine & Integrative Health will bring together global experts, clinicians, researchers, policy makers, and industry leaders to explore the evolving landscape of traditional, complementary, and integrative healthcare systems. Scheduled for March 22-24, 2027 in Hybrid Format (Singapore & Online), the congress will serve as a dynamic platform for knowledge exchange across Ayurveda, Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), Siddha, Unani, Kampo, herbal medicine, naturopathy, acupuncture, mind-body medicine, integrative oncology, functional medicine, and evidence-based holistic care. With Asia positioned as a global hub for traditional healing systems, Singapore offers a strategic gateway connecting East and West, fostering cross-disciplinary collaboration and international partnerships.

The conference will focus on bridging traditional knowledge with modern scientific validation, regulatory frameworks, digital health integration, and translational research. Key discussions will address clinical trials in herbal medicine, quality control and standardization, integrative approaches in chronic disease management, personalized medicine, microbiome research, mental health integration, public health policy, and global market expansion of traditional therapies. By combining academic sessions, keynote lectures, panel discussions, industry showcases, and networking forums, TradMed Asia 2027 will highlight innovation, sustainability, and global commercialization pathways within traditional and integrative medicine sectors.

As a hybrid event, the congress ensures inclusive participation through both in-person engagement in Singapore and virtual global access. Attendees will benefit from scientific presentations, collaborative research opportunities, startup and investor interactions, and exposure to emerging healthcare technologies integrating AI and digital therapeutics with traditional systems. TradMed Asia 2027 aims to strengthen global healthcare ecosystems by promoting integrative models that are patient-centered, culturally inclusive, evidence-driven, and aligned with future healthcare transformation strategies.
